

Specialist Leader of Education Personal Profile

Margaret Mulholland

School:	Swiss Cottage School Development & Research Centre
Leadership role:	Director of Development & Research
Type:	Special School
Education Phase:	Primary
Area of expertise:	ITT/NQT (special)

Profile:

Margaret has over 20 years' experience in delivering education, initial teacher education and professional development and is currently the Director of Development & Research at Swiss Cottage School Development & Research Centre.

Margaret sits on the Senior Leader board at the school and runs a multi-faceted team within the Development & Research Centre.

As Director of Development & Research Margaret leads an alliance of outstanding teachers and leaders who are committed to supporting other schools to raise standards of teaching and improve the achievement of pupils.

She continually develops and grows sustainable affiliations with partnership institutions including universities, health, higher education institutions and charities, all offering partnerships working to enhance educational opportunities for SEN and mainstream pupils.

Working with the Centre of Educational Neuroscience she designs and develops research projects into social development, maths, autistic spectrum condition, language & Literacy and how the brain works.

Previous to her work at Swiss Cottage, Margaret worked with the Institute of Education in London establishing and managing innovative initial teacher education and leadership development programmes.

Throughout her career she has remained a teaching practitioner, delivering education programme content as well as programme design.